BUILDING SKILL IN SUMMER SCHOOL

Educating in the field

10th July - 29th July 2017

Over three weeks each year the Prince's Foundation for Building Community runs a Summer School on traditional building and repair techniques and how these can be applied in the 21st Century. Among other things, participants will:

- Take part in drawing, geometry and structure exercises, and architectural drawing tours
- Learn about architectural development and history
- Gain practical training in a number of craft and conservation skills alongside students and professionals
- Undertake a weeklong design workshop, including stakeholder consultations, design modelling and technical drawings
